

2020, here we come!

by Adam Smith

Early December saw our teams from around the country come together in Christchurch, to reflect on our successes in 2019 and plan for the coming year.

This was a great opportunity for our real estate and property management teams to share learnings and ideas – not to mention a few laughs, and a great meal.

One of the highlights of the event was a talk by professional speaker, Allison Mooney, who entertained the team with her (often hilarious!) insights into the ways that individuals interact.

It was the perfect note to end the year at work – and gave us some great ideas to put into practice in 2020. Watch this space!
